BY DARROW

Judge Forced to Make Repeated Calls for Police When Loeb-Leopold Orator Takes Floor.

"MONEY HANDICAPS
YOUTH'S DEFENSE"

"No Case in Chicago, Where, on Guilty Plea, Boy Under 21 Has Been Sentenced to Death."

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Riot calls by police headquarters resulted today from the crush of frantic court fans trying to gain admission to the courtroom of Judge John R. Caverly, where Clarence S. Darrow started his plea for mercy towards Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, kidnapers and murderers of Robert Franks.

So great was the crush in corridors, halls and stairways that a score of deputies and policemen were unable to control the mob. Twice the Court telephoned for police reinforcements, first for 30 and then for 20 additional officers. Women fainted, clothing was torn, and several persons were reported injured in the struggle. The Court held up the start of Darrow's address for half an hour until the corridors were cleared. Then he ordered all visitors except the defense team to leave the building.

There are four of your honor's friends out here, Judge," reported Darrow. "Let them stay out, they're late." Then the harassed officer said he could not permit the press to clear the corridor. "Oh, let newspaper men pass in and out," said the Judge.

A roar of laughter swept the Judge, spectators, attorneys and defendants as the portals swung open and "the press" entered in the person of a chunky messenger boy, his hair awry, collar twisted and face red, but with a triumphant grin on his features.

Push for Courtroom.
An attempt was made to systematize the handling of the crowds before the start of the afternoon session. All visitors accompanied by attorneys or court attaches were debarred from elevators at the fifth landing, a floor below Judge Caverly's court, and there herded into long double ranks. But the trouble came when the front ranks were allowed prematurely to ascend the stairs. They broke bounds and rushed into the corridor leading to the court, packing it until women grew faint and perspiring policemen and deputies were exhausted trying to control them.

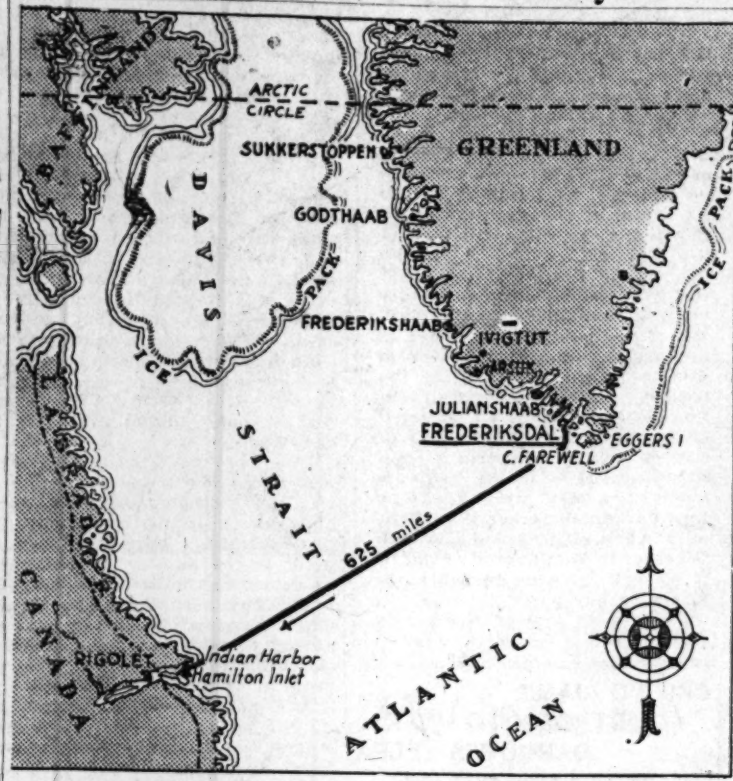

Judge Caverly was ruffled and flustered with perspiration after three stalwart deputies had forced a way for him through the press. It took him 15 minutes to get into the building, for, after the fifth floor was filled, the mob packed stairways and halls and extended back on the sidewalks a half block in both directions. State's Attorney Drees and some of his assistants escaped the crush by ascending on the elevator reserved for prisoners. The situation became so desperate that Judge Caverly telephoned to the Chief of Police for 30 more officers. As court opened the people in the corridor were pushed back to the accompaniment of shouts and a few stifled screams from women.

"Step back," yelled the officers, and muffled protests came from the midst of the crowd as those in the rear resisted execution of the order. Allan Loeb, brother of Richard, used his athletic build to good effect in winning a way through. Jacob Loeb, his uncle, came into court with perspiration streaming from his face. Nathan Leopold and his elder son came in with the aid of deputies.

"All Right, Mr. Darrow," Judge Caverly delayed start of Darrow's address until everyone in court had found a seat. "That's all, keep the door closed, Joe," called the Judge to his personal bailiff, but echoes of the words in the courtroom continued to drift into the room. The court allowed Deputy Sheriffs to bring the defendants into the room. "Keep that door closed," repeated the Judge, as a surge was made in the wake of Milton Smith and and all sections of the country on an equal basis. It is the avoidance of secrecy and whispering and sharp practice in the management of public affairs. Men love darkness rather than light only when their deeds are evil. Whether in Washington or out of it we will have no invisible advisers in our party councils, no alliance with any of those who work in secret for secret ends."

Points of Difference.
Davis told his audience that this was only one of the points on which the Republican and Democratic parties differ, and he promised that as the campaign proceeded some of the points already clear would become "plainer still."

"They outwardly display special privilege, except in the sacred ground of a protective tariff," he said. "We oppose it in this and every other form."

"They believe, or profess to believe that agriculture should be on an economic basis with other industries. They have no plans to this end, but the appointment of a committee to investigate and advise that the farmer provide himself with leaders not interested in politics. We think that the first step to economic quality is to deprive others of their unjust advantage."

"They are content to conduct the foreign affairs of the United States through private citizens, unofficially observing. We think America is great enough to speak in her own name."

"They propose now, after nearly four years of absolute inaction, to enroll the United States as a member of the League of Nations. We promise to do as soon as power is in our hands."

"They present a party made up of a President facing in one direction, a Congress in another and the rank and file scattered in between. We have a harmonious army, officers and privates, marching to a common end."

Promises Vague.
Speaking to Democratic leaders of New Jersey at a luncheon preceding his set speech, Davis promised that in carrying the message of his party to the American people he would "spare no effort, shrink no exertion and shrink from no test my endurance will support."

Davis declared that as he had listened to reports coming to him from all sections of the country he was satisfied that never in the history of democracy has the party from ocean to ocean been "more united and harmonious than it is at this good hour."

Most of the State party leaders were guests at the luncheon. Davis was given an ovation which lasted several minutes.

In presenting Davis, Gov. Silzer told his luncheon guests that after "a unique, strenuous and truly Democratic convention, there emerged as the choice one who undoubtedly is the best qualified man in our party."

The candidate's principal address was at Camp Silzer, the New Jersey National Guard's campment.

Harry Heher, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, was selected to preside, and speakers before Davis included United States Senator Edward J. Edwards, Mayor Frederick M. Donnelly of Trenton, who will be the Democratic candidate for the United States Senate and Commissioner A. Harry Moore of Jersey City.

Davis spoke from a platform facing the parade grounds at Camp Silzer, where there were accommodations for upwards of 50,000 persons. At the conclusion of his speech, the nominee, the Governor and the other State leaders reviewed the National Guard.

While Davis' arrival here was without pomp or ceremony, his presence drew crowds from far and near. He was accompanied by Mrs. Davis and his headquarters staff.

There were no formalities or programs arranged last night, but the nominee, his host and other party leaders had a general discussion of the National campaign.

BANK AT VENICE AGAIN HELD UP; $5800 IS TAKEN

played in a number of recent robberies of banks in the Tri-Cities and Southern Illinois, inciting the police to believe that one gang is responsible for these holdups.

A week ago last Monday the Tri-City State Bank at Madison, which "alighted" Venice, was held up in a similar manner by three men who escaped with $5780. It was the third time this bank had been successfully robbed by holdup men in six years, the total loot having been $17,120. The National Bank at Granite City, another Tri-Cities institution, lost $22,000 in a hold-up April 24 last.

This criminal activity against banks has stirred the Illinois Bankers' association to action, and a meeting of members of the association was held at Edwardsville this afternoon, at which a representative of the association informed the bankers that unless drastic measures against holdups are taken, insurance rates will be greatly increased.

Text of Davis' New Jersey Speech in Which He Says G. O. P. Can't Escape Responsibility for Corruption

By the Associated Press.

SEAGIRT, N. J., Aug. 22. THE following is the text of the address of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, delivered at mass meeting here today of New Jersey Democrats:

This is my second appearance at Seagirt. You will not be surprised to find me here at this time to the circumstances of my earlier visit. It happened on a hot July day, 12 years ago. I was one of a party of 200 or more who were crammed in the dust from the station to the Governor's house at Seagirt. At our head marched that grand old Republican, Charles Clark, then the Speaker of the House of Representatives. Among the party I recall a Jersey man who was then my colleague in Congress and who is now in the Senate—the loved and lovable Billy Hughes. We were calling on a Governor of New Jersey who had just received the Democratic nomination for the presidency. Most of that company, including myself, had never made his personal acquaintance. It was our errand to assure him of our hearty support and to place ourselves at his service. The impressions of that day were summed up for me by one of my colleagues as we were tramped back to the waiting train. Said he, "When that man comes to Washington there will be a leader in the White House."

I recall how quickly this leadership assertion had been attained. Congress met without delay and the first act in the drama was the scourging from the Capitol of the horde of lobbyists, hangers-on, seekers for privilege and representatives of special interests who had infested its corridors. Then came in quick succession under the fairest tariff law since the Civil War; the Federal Reserve act, for which the country had waited half a century; the Federal Trade Commission act curbing monopolies and establishing the rights of labor; and through succeeding sessions the Democratic party under his guidance and leadership, confident in his leadership.

Woodrow Wilson's Great War Record.
"The great war broke. There fell upon him burdens heavier than any that his predecessors had been called upon to bear. For two years he struggled to keep America from the maelstrom, and then when the attack upon her rights was made directly he threw himself and his country into the battle with a fiery energy that amazed the world. Men and money and munitions came at his call and his clear voice rang out like a trumpet across the world, giving new meaning to the struggle and new life to those engaged in it. When the war was ended he gave to the making of peace the last ounce of his remaining strength. He endeavored to set up machinery not only to prevent future wars, but to mitigate the evils which this war, the last and greatest, had brought upon the world. He never looked upon the treaty of Versailles as a complete and final settlement, but hoped that when time had cooled men's passions the machinery he sought to create would remove any element of injustice or revenge the treaty might contain, and would give the world a stable and abiding peace. And then he fell, broken, thwarted, but his spirit unflinching. He called him an idealist, they pronounced him ahead of his time. They forgot that they were but echoing what the world has said through all the centuries of those who sought to lead. Envy and hate and malice can touch him now no more forever, but the thoughts to which he gave utterance and the ideals he proclaimed will live long after those who opposed them have passed and been forgotten."

We stand at the threshold of another presidential campaign and the American people are called on once more to decide whether they will leave their destinies in charge of those who are now in power or give them over into other hands. Do they want a change or do they not? That is the question upon which all popular elections turn. Under a parliamentary system like that which obtains in Great Britain or in France, the Government of the day puts to the House of Commons or the Chamber of Deputies the question of confidence or no confidence. We do the same thing, except that with us the question is put to the people as a whole. Republicans must be gained or surprised, therefore, if we ask them to give account of what they have done or left undone. They must not blame us if we jog the public memory concerning things that might otherwise be forgotten."

To all such complaints we can but reply in the language of the Scriptures: "Beware ye of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. But there is nothing covered up that shall not be revealed; nothing hid that shall not become known. Therefore, whatever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light, and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops."

"Some Startling Contrasts To Say the Least."
"When we paint against the vivid background of the eight years under Wilson the history that has been unrolled since March 4, 1912, there are, to say the least, some startling contrasts. In 1912 the lobby was scourged from Washington; in 1921, like a flock of unclean birds hastening to the feast, it gathered from the four winds and descended upon the city. The Little Green House in 'K' street was set up for sinister purposes, but partly disclosed. Its occupants and their friends soon proved that they lacked neither zeal nor appetite."

"First of all came oil. At the head of the buccaners, the Secretary of the Interior, in 30 days after he took office the naval oil reserves had been transferred to his gentle guardianship and the dealing began. The policy of conservation for which President Roosevelt and Wilson had fought so valiantly, was thrown to the winds and within less than 12 months, in secret and without public warning of any sort, all the oil reserves upon which the navy depended passed into private hands. Thus of 26,000,000 barrels of oil which the Teapot Dome was estimated to contain, only about 1,600,000 barrels will become the property of the Government. In case of emergency or threatened danger the country will have only the doubtful privilege of buying back from the interested parties, at their own prices, the oil which once it owned."

"After the oil, the veterans, for whose care in one form or another the enormous total of $450,000,000 was provided to be spent, a sum half as much again as the budget of the War Department or the Navy, and 20 times the carrying cost of the Department of State. Here was a rare field for enterprise. A year and a half after Congress had appropriated $25,000,000 for building purposes only 200 hospital beds had been added to the bureau's equipment and those in a hospital purchased ready-made; but of the $25,000,000, $17,000 for hospital site and sold it to the Government on the same day for $105,000; and $100,000 had been paid for the site of a hospital building to be built on a site never built. We may be pardoned for asking whether it was common sense to sell at 20 cents on the dollar more than $4,000 sheets for the hospital beds we were waiting, while at the very time others were being bought to take their place at five times that price."

"The enforcement of the prohibition law gave an opportunity for action of which the depens of the little green house were quick to avail themselves. Trade was brisk and money was easy to come by. The war in Europe was in its last stages, and the world was waiting for the peace. The tariff was being revised, and the world was waiting for the peace. The tariff was being revised, and the world was waiting for the peace."

contested lawsuit to recover them. The policy involved in this transfer, and the acts themselves, as we know by his own declaration, had the express sanction of the then President of the United States. Is his party not to be held politically responsible to the American people for their loss?

We Democrats are making and will make no charge of personal animosity nor shall I speak with disrespect of any occupant of the presidential chair, whether living or dead. I am glad to believe that the office has never been unworthily held. We have, however, the President's own authority for the statement that "the only practical way to secure responsible political action is by the formation of parties." We agree and assert further that the only way to secure good Government is by the formation of parties. The policy of conservation for which President Roosevelt and Wilson had fought so valiantly, was thrown to the winds and within less than 12 months, in secret and without public warning of any sort, all the oil reserves upon which the navy depended passed into private hands. deaf ears. What might we not have done had we but dared to do? If ever the request made by President Wilson to Congress in 1918 for the appointment of an official representative of America on the Reparation Commission had been complied with, the last five years would have presented a different picture and the world would have been so much nearer to its goal."

I can not treat as either "remarkable or constructive" accomplishment our separate treaties of peace with the vanquished and powerless Governments of Germany, Austria and Hungary, who upon our demand could do nothing else than give up their arms and their territories. The treaties of Versailles, St. Germain and Trianon, with none of their duties or responsibilities. Even less of glory would seem to be possible. I think I detect in which on our part we meekly accepted at the hands of Turkey, or to the ratification by the Senate of a treaty negotiated by a Democratic Secretary of State in execution of a long-delayed act of justice toward the Republic of Colombia."

At some time in the future we are promised "covenants for outlawing aggressive war by any practical means." "What is honesty in government? Honesty in the handling of the public funds and the public property, of course. But it is something more. It is candor and fair dealing and impartiality and the transaction of the public business in the open, in broad daylight without disguise or pretense or evasion. It is the playing of no favorites, whether in making public contracts or in writing public laws. It is the treating of all classes and all sections of the country on an equal basis. It is the avoidance of secrecy and whispering and sharp practice in the management of public affairs. Men love darkness rather than light only when their deeds are evil. Whether in Washington or out of it we will have no invisible advisers in our party councils, no alliance with any of those who work in secret for secret ends."

Arkansas Files $60,000 Action Against Congressman Tillman.
By the Associated Press.
ROGERS, Ark., Aug. 22.—J. N. Tillman, congressman from the Third Arkansas District and candidate for re-election, has been made defendant in a suit for $60,000 filed by Claude Fuller, recently a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress and defeated by Tillman. Fuller claims that his defeat was due to the fact that the present congressman had made improper statements about his opponent, the statements having been circulated in a circular broadcast through the district but four days before the election. Tillman, who long has been a power in Democratic circles in Arkansas, was at one time president of the University of Arkansas.

"He knows he is broke, he has no delusions of wealth." Pointing out that the members of the prisoner's brain has begun to thicken with an accompanying enfeeblement of judgment, intellect and memory, the alienist declares that McCoy is not only a diseased, but a very dangerous man. The alibi which Miss Dahlgren repudiated when questioned by the district attorney last night was to the effect that she had been spying on Mrs. Mors and McCoy, say McCoy leave the death apartment shortly before the shooting, saw a "thick set" man arrive, heard an argument and a shot and then saw the "thick set" man depart. With the annihilation of the alibi the testimony of Mrs. Ida Martin, who insists she heard and saw two men fleeing from the apartment, since they know he was elsewhere at that hour. The body of Mrs. Mors today was to begin its way to New York where it will rest in a grave provided by her parents.

"One of Aviation's Great Achievements," President Coolidge Says.

Silence of Naval Radio Puzzles By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Although the official navy wireless kept its puzzling silence today regarding the flight of the army world flyers from Iceland to Greenland, air service officials broke their long vigil with expressions of gratitude and relief as details of the feat of the flyers began to come in piecemeal in news dispatches.

With the 32-mile stretch of water between Iceland and Greenland behind them, the belief here is that the aviators have passed their last really great hazard. Counting on an even break from now on, it felt they can regard their history-making task as virtually an accomplished fact. Both army and navy officers seemed completely nonplussed at the unusual delay in receiving detailed news reports of the arrival and the absolute silence of the navy radio, chosen as the official means of communication between the aviators and Washington. All night long the officers had waited beside the spluttering navy instruments without success throughout the morning and into the afternoon.

Frequent urgent requests for any scrap of information were sent in to the air as the hours passed and a determined search was made through all known avenues of approach in an effort to get in touch with some one of the naval vessels stationed along the line of the flight. But so far as results were concerned the navy messages might as well have been directed to Mars. Not only had Admiral Magruder's ships under instructions to report the movements of the aviators, but it was assumed that the flyers themselves had made an attempt immediately on their arrival to report by wireless to their chiefs in Washington.

The first word to be received by the navy from any of its ships along the route of the world flight in the North Atlantic was a brief message that came this afternoon from the cruiser Richmond reporting that no word had been received from the Italian aviator, Lieut. Locatelli.

The message referred to a dense fog and seemed to indicate that the American flyers might have decided to delay for the present their next hop across the lower tip of Greenland to Tisbury. "No news of Locatelli," said the dispatch. "Thick fog after leaving the last station ship 217 miles off Cape Farewell. To await better weather."

FRANKS SLAYERS 'HAVE PARANOID PERSONALITIES'

Direct Contention Made by Walter Bachrach of Defense in Analysis of Alienists' Testimony.

EXCERPTS READ FROM SINGER-KROHN BOOK

State Specialists Quoted in Attack on Their Testimony; Volume Given to Judge to Study.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—That Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb have paranoid personalities was the direct statement made today to Judge John R. Caverly by Walter Bachrach, one of the attorneys who are trying to save from the gallows the admitted murderers of Robert Franks.

Bachrach, picking up his thread of argument, stopped yesterday at adjournment, began with a discussion of the alienists' testimony for the State, pointing out that they did not have the proper surroundings to make a scientific or inclusive examination. He said:

"When Dr. Hugh T. Patrick testified for the State he couched his opinions in the most careful language and did nothing more than state that in that inadequate examination no proof had been submitted to him that the defendants were mentally diseased. The symptoms of these boys are such that no immediate diagnosis can be made."

"Now what Dr. William O. Krohn and Dr. Douglas Singer, other State alienists, think about it, best defined in their own book. This book, on page 193, says that these boys are such that no immediate diagnosis can be made. These authorities for the State further say that the surprising feature of this conduct is that the subject's acts are logical, his perception clear and memory good. The man remains in contact with reality, active, alert and interested."

Quoting further from the book, Bachrach turned to Dr. Singer's definition of symptoms and evidence of a paranoid personality and the cross-examination of Dr. Patrick, all three alienists for the State, in an effort to prove the contentions of the defense that the youths have a mental disease, despite the statement of Dr. Krohn on the stand that he had found no evidence of such a condition.

Child With Young Men

When he started on split personality, Crowe made a suggestion as to the time the book was written. "It was not written late enough," retorted Bachrach. "It was put out before this case arose."

Bachrach emphasized that until the time the book was written, the atmosphere and surroundings have an important bearing on the examination of a patient.

"One must bear in mind that the time, atmosphere and surroundings have an important bearing on the examination of a patient," continued Bachrach, and he asked Judge Caverly to consider whether 15 minutes was sufficient time to arrive at the conclusion of the study of five alienists for the defense, who had from eight days to two weeks to make every examination they desired.

Bachrach decried the impression which he said the State sought to create that, because the boys were "paranoid," the State's attorneys that they refused to answer questions on the advice of counsel, it was an evidence of normality.

"There is no claim here that they do not have a memory or that they are stupid," said the attorney. "They know they are in court, they appreciate the situation and also they knew that when Mr. Crowe asked them questions the thing to do was to keep their mouths shut. The evidence is that because of their super-intellect and on account of slow development of their emotional lives, a split in the personality of the boys occurred."

"The Wrong Premise." Bachrach stated flatly that "Richard Loeb has a paranoid personality. His logic is irrational, his emotions are uncontrollable. The only trouble is that he starts with the wrong premise. But that is what makes him a paranoid."

"Now the paranoid has delusions of grandeur. He may even consider himself equal to God Almighty and not act that way. In October, 1923, before this crime was contemplated, Leopold was holding himself up as a Superman. 'We are not here to defend his philosophies, but we do believe that his beliefs in super-normality show he is mentally diseased. Because he thinks he is a Superman he lays down a code that must be obeyed by Loeb before he himself has even established a moral attitude."

"It is not the philosophy that is on trial, of course, but that philosophy is evidence. The fact that he thought he was to be the sole judge of whether a thing is right is evidence bearing upon the question of whether he is of a paranoid personality."

Text of Authorities. Bachrach told the court that during his argument he would quote frequently from books and texts of authorities dealing with the subject of paranoia. He endeavored to show that Leopold, particularly, had all the symptoms of a mental disorder described in the abstracts of which he was quoting. These included the individual's pride in his intellect, his self-satisfaction, his elegance in the control

WOMAN MODELING BUST BY MEMORY OF THEFT SUSPECT

Art Store Secretary Doing Man in Red Wig in Clay After Loss of $20,000 Painting.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Modeling from memory, Miss Helen White, secretary of the Consignment Arts, Inc., has begun work on a bust of the man believed to be the confederate of a thief who took a portrait by Ferdinand Bol, Rembrandt's noted pupil, from the showroom of the firm at noon Tuesday.

Miss White is proud of her memory for facts and in the show room yesterday she took a small piece of clay and a paper cutter and modeled a miniature likeness of the man in a few minutes.

The stolen portrait, that of a Dutch noblewoman, is more than 200 years old, is valued at $25,000, and has never been photographed or reproduced. Miss White believes the picture was stolen by persons who visited the show room several times within five or six weeks, all the visits being made between 11 and 12 o'clock in the morning, when the doorman was off duty.

The theft on Tuesday morning followed the visit of a well-dressed man wearing a red wig who asked the prices of several paintings. He studied the Bol portrait, and left, promising to return. The loss was not discovered until after the man had left.

Miss White had asked him for his name and address, which he gave as George Hemingway of 218 Larchmont road, Larchmont. Investigation revealed there is no such address.

of emotions and a selfish desire for pleasure, all of which Bachrach declared have been testified to as the backbone of Leopold's constitution. "These evidences, according to Dr. Singer and Krohn, the authorities from which I am reading, are symptoms of a paranoid personality," Bachrach asserted.

"These authorities for the State further say that the surprising feature of this conduct is that the subject's acts are logical, his perception clear and memory good. The man remains in contact with reality, active, alert and interested."

THREE MEN BURNED IN $25,000 BLAZE

Building Occupied by St. Louis Bale and Tie Co. Destroyed by Fire.

Three men were burned slightly in a fire yesterday afternoon which destroyed the two-story corrugated iron and wood structure occupied by the St. Louis Bale & Tie Company at Main and Riddle streets.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, was discovered in a pile of waste on the first floor and spread quickly. The score of employees fled safely from the building, after two men employees led Miss Margaret Holden of 324 North Twenty-second street, down a smoke-filled stair from the office on the second floor, where she was at work.

Firemen fought to confine the flames to the one structure, which was situated in the heart of the storage and warehouse district. A truck of merchandise, of the Columbia Terminals Company, parked in a narrow alleyway, separating the bale company plant and the Columbia warehouse, was saved through efforts of three employees. In removing the truck, Tony Chevrolet of 915 West street, Earl Beck of 1225 Cass avenue and Russell Copley of Webster Groves, all chauffeurs, suffered burns about the head and face.

Joseph Monning, secretary of the bale company, which manufactures wire products, estimated the loss to the building, stock and machinery at $25,000.

Loeb was 14 years of age, he was completely under control of a governess. "Then she ceased to be his governess and he entered college at the age of 14," he continued. "He was approaching adolescence and at that tender age lost all the previous advice and guidance of his governess and was thrust into a life where excessive demands for adjustment to life were suddenly placed upon him. As a child he already had been started on a schizophrenic career and now he was suddenly called upon to adjust a childish viewpoint and habits to the viewpoints and habits of young men from 17 to 22 years of age."

"The evidence in respect to Loeb is that he started in as a child to a peculiar type of phantasy, a phantasy of being in jail, of being looked at by women through the bars, which is different from the normal phantasies that everybody has."

Persisting Phantasies. "We make no pretense that everybody does not have phantasies. They have a very definite function. But a phantasy, to be normal, must have a definite relation to the environment of the individual. A small boy has phantasies of being a policeman, an aviator, or a lawyer, which are noble in character and tend the maintaining of life and the enlargement of the individual."

"And it does not do for Dr. Patrick and Church to say that such phantasies are not evidences of mental disease here. We say that abnormal phantasies, pathological phantasies, give an indication of what is going on in the human mind, a pathological condition."

"Where they don't change as the normal life changes, where they last until the boy is in jail, charged with kidnapping and murder, those phantasies of being of an abnormal type are indeed indications that something is wrong."

"The State alienist took the position that if evidence of mental disease was not presented to them in one afternoon, they could not believe there was any indication of a mental disorder," said Bachrach.

"Further, their examination or observation, admittedly, was said to have been made under conditions which they do not apply in regular practice."

Crowe asked Bachrach if all that he was reading about did not deal with insanity. "Yes," replied the attorney.

"Is that your defense?" Crowe inquired. "No," Bachrach shot back, and added that what he was reading about insanity was given in the book as evidence of mental trouble short of legal insanity. He turned to the court and emphasized that the defense had not referred to insanity either in a medical or legal sense.

Foot-Loose Alienists. Bachrach told the judge the defense had arranged with alienists from Eastern cities as well as Chicago because they wished a report from "men who were absolutely foot-loose." "They do not make a business of testifying in court, either for State's attorneys or defense attorneys," he said, referring to Dr. Krohn's 18 years' experience as a medical expert in trials. "Furthermore, they examined these boys in a quiet cell of the county jail, far away from any such crowd as was in the State's Attorney's office when the other experts observed them."

In closing Bachrach discussed the effect of the endocrine glands and read from a book written by an Eastern authority. Some of the extracts were the same as those which the State previously had quoted from in the direct examination of alienists for the State. They dealt with the basal metabolism, the functions of the various endocrine glands in regard to the mind, the appearance of acromegaly in the examination of the youths and physical swelling of the condition of the blood and contributing organs.

Bachrach presented the book to the judge for the latter's study and took his seat as court adjourned for the noonday recess.

AUTO CROSSES THE SINAI DESERT IN 4 HOURS; TOOK ISRAELITES 40 YEARS

By the Associated Press.
JERUSALEM, Aug. 22.—SMALL American automobile yesterday did in four hours what it required the Israelites 40 years to accomplish in their exodus from Egypt to Palestine.

This was the crossing of the Sinai desert, the wild and barren region between the Gulf of Suez and the Gulf of Akabah, a distance of about 130 miles.

LAST POLITICAL PRISONER WAITS FOR DEPORTATION

Joseph Baltrusaitis of St. Louis, to Be Sent to Lithuania, Immigration Officers Say.

The nation's last political prisoner, a St. Louis saloonkeeper whose prison sentence recently was commuted by the President, will be deported to his native land of Lithuania as soon as a passport can be obtained from that Government.

Announcement of this decision was made today in Washington by immigration officials in the case of Joseph Baltrusaitis, 28 years old, an alien, who was released from Leavenworth Prison early this week after serving five months of a two-year sentence for violation of the espionage act. He is at liberty under $1000 bond, pending deportation.

As the last of the political prisoners the American Civil Liberties Union championed his cause and was instrumental in prevailing upon President Coolidge to set him free.

The deportation of Baltrusaitis after imprisonment was ordered because of his conviction under the espionage act. Two other complaints were lodged against him, violating prohibition and jumping a bond.

Was Saloonkeeper.

Baltrusaitis was a saloonkeeper at 901 Market street. In 1920 prohibition agents learned he was circulating communist literature and an agent of the Department of Justice obtained communist pamphlets from Baltrusaitis. One of these urged workers to rally round the social revolution for the overthrow of capitalist government and the establishment of soviet government in America that would join hands with soviet Russia. Other communist literature was found in a raid of his home. A jury in Federal Court here found him guilty of attempting to cause disloyalty and sedition, and he was sentenced Oct. 24, 1921, to two years in prison. He was released on an appeal bond. When his appeal was not perfected by his lawyer, he jumped the bond, but was arrested Feb. 27 last and sent to Leavenworth penitentiary.

Pleaded Ignorance.

A deportation hearing was held here last year to consider the case of Baltrusaitis, at which Inspector of Immigration Nash recommended that he be deported. This recommendation was affirmed by the Department at Washington.

Baltrusaitis has always declared he favored the United States in war time; bought Liberty Bonds, and obeyed the Government of the United States. He pleaded ignorance of the contents of the pamphlets found in his possession, asserting that he cannot read or write, and said the pamphlets were left with him by a Russian who asked that he give them to other Russians.

BUS HITS IRON POLE; SEVEN PERSONS HURT

Driver Swerves to Avoid Another Machine and Brakes Fail to Hold.

Seven persons were injured, three seriously, when a westbound People's Delmar bus crashed into an iron trolley pole in the middle of Delmar boulevard, at Goodfellow avenue, at 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

The chauffeur of the wrecked bus told police that another westbound bus suddenly stopped in front of his and he swerved his car to the left and applied the brakes, but they failed to work. John Holman, 24, of 28 North Spring avenue, the chauffeur, suffered injuries to both arms; the conductor, Milton Pallett, 25, of 3778 Ridge, suffered cuts and bruises about the face and body, and a passenger, Miss Julia Powers, 18, a telephone operator, of 4620 Enright avenue, cuts and bruises about the chin, shoulders and arms.

Other passengers who were slightly injured were: Mrs. Mildred R. Wells, 32, of 5936 McPherson avenue, and Miss Mary Burdham, 14, of Georgetown, Tex., who is visiting her: Mrs. Clara Oldham, 38, and Miss Dorothy Oldham, 18, of 616 Eastgate avenue. The accident, incidentally, resulted in renewal of efforts by business men and residents along Delmar boulevard to have the United Railways remove the trolley poles from the middle of the street, as a safety measure. A bill which would have required this was passed by the Board of Aldermen last fall, but Acting Mayor Neun did not sign it because of a defect in its wording. A similar bill probably will be introduced when the board convenes next month.

Woman and Daughter Hurt in Collision of Autos.

An automobile driven by James Stocum, 4131 Elizabeth avenue, and occupied by his wife, Leona, 31, and daughter, Leona, 14, collided with another car at Broadway and Robert avenue last night. Mrs. Stocum and the daughter suffered fractures of the right shoulder.

A truck occupied by six persons collided with an eastbound Wellston street car at Sixteenth and Morgan streets yesterday. Mrs. Maggie Komosa, 35, of 1437 North Seventh street, with skull and internal injuries, was the only one seriously hurt.

LORD PIRRIE'S WIDOW WILL HEAD BIG SHIPBUILDING FIRM

Continued from the Associated Press. BELFAST, July 31.—Another woman's name has been added to the growing list of managers of great industrial businesses, that of Lady Pirrie, widow of Lord Pirrie, who died at sea while on his way home from South America. He was chairman of the great shipbuilding firm of Harland & Wolff.

Lady Pirrie will be the first president of the company, this post having been specially made for her, and has declared that she will not be simply a figurehead, but will take an active part in its administration. Throughout her married life Lady Pirrie accompanied her husband on all his travels, and she expects that the experience she gained through coming into contact with his business associates will stand her in good stead in her new post. This experience was considerable, for Lord Pirrie was said never to have made an important decision without consulting Lady Pirrie.

CHARGES A WHEEL MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Hays Wheel Co. of Jackson, Mich., was charged yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission with having violated provisions of the Clayton Act, in acquiring the outstanding common capital stock of a competing company. The Hays company, it was said, manufactures 37 per cent of the automobile wheels in the United States.

The commission charged that by the company's acquisition of the stock of the Imperial Wheel Co. of Flint, Mich., competition between them had been substantially lessened, and this tended to create a monopoly in the automobile wheel business. A hearing will be given before the commission makes its final ruling.

POLICE BAND CONCERT
TOMORROW NIGHT

Tickets Now on Sale for Benefit Entertainment at Orpheum Theater.

Reservations for the concert at the Orpheum Theater tomorrow evening under the auspices of the St. Louis Police Band, should be made at the Orpheum Theater box office today or early tomorrow, to assure securing good seats and the success of the benefit for the babies. Tickets are priced at regular Orpheum prices and the entire proceeds of the affair will go to the Ice Fund, since the use of the theater and all attaches has been donated for the evening.

Members of the Theatrical Men's Union have notified the Post-Dispatch through E. J. Sullivan, manager of the Orpheum Theater, that they will donate their services for the performance, in line with their usual custom at the annual Orpheum show for the fund. The St.
Louis Moving Picture and Projecting Machine Operators' union is permitting the operator to donate his services again this year.

Through the courtesy of Guy
Guterman of the Carmen Opera Company management, one of the women principals of the opera company will be among the soloists presented with the band. The St. Louis Quartette will sing a cycle of popular songs and the Moran Sisters, dancers, will entertain with several dance numbers.

The program of the band will include a miscellany of numbers ranging from the classical to the popular, grouped much after the fashion of a Sousa concert. Charles Windmueller will direct the organization, which numbers 35 members.

WANTS DRASTIC PENALTIES FOR SMUGGLED ALIENS

New York Commissioner Recommends 20 Years Imprisonment and Deportation for 31
Italians Held.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Twenty years imprisonment, then deportation, were recommended yesterday
by Immigration Commissioner Curran for 31 Italians, recently caught as they were being smuggled ashore from an ocean liner. The aliens were seized aboard the schooner Susie B. They persistently refused to tell the name of the steamship which brought them
from Italy and put them aboard the schooner, outside the 12-mile limit.

The Commissioner had them
shackled together yesterday and sent them to jail in Brooklyn. He recommended that they be tried in the Federal Court for attempting to enter the country without pas-ports, given the maximum sentence of 20 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine, and then deported
when their sentences expired.

Several hundred aliens, caught in Western States after having been smuggled into this country, are now serving a year and a day
in Federal prisons, said Commissioner Curran. He declared that "more drastic measures of prevention" were necessary to curb the "flourishing business of bootlegging foreigners."

VANDERBILT YACHT DISABLED

William Jr., on Scientific Trip, Puts Back to Casa Blanca.
By the Associated Press.
CASA BLANCA, Morocco, Aug.
22.—William K. Vanderbilt Jr.'s yacht, the Ara, which set out for Gibraltar yesterday, had to put back to this port because of an accident to her machinery and a heavy sea.

Vanderbilt and a party of friends sailed from New York on a scientific and pleasure cruise early this month. It was expected that the trip would require about six months, during which it was planned to touch at France, Spain and many Mediterranean ports. It was understood that Vanderbilt intended to make an extended study of oceanography along the course of his cruise.

Expert Indorses Juvenile System.
The Juvenile Court system here
was strongly indorsed by Chester Birch, an expert in juvenile delinquency of 24 years experience, at the close of two weeks of observation in the court and speaking in factories and churches under auspices of the Church Federation.
Birch, whose home is in Kansas City, commended the efforts of the court to keep its charges out of an institution except as a last resort.

PICKPOCKETS ROB THREE MEN

Check for $6453 Stolen From Visitor on Street Car.

A purse containing $110 in cash, a check for $6453, and a ticket to New Orleans, was taken from the pocket of Hyman Bohrer of Alexandria, La., on a street car between Union Station and the Marquette Hotel last night. 26 CONTRACTS PUT IN EVIDENCE AT GASOLINE INQUIRY

Standard of Indiana Granted 21 Companies Right to Use Its 'Cracking' Process Under Penalty Clause.

RIVALS WERE KEPT FROM COMPETING

Barrett Says Agreements Constituted Restraint of Trade — Hearing Adjourned to Sept. 10.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 22.—The second series of hearings in the State's gasoline price inquiry came to a close late yesterday afternoon, after Attorney-General Barrett had introduced in evidence 26 contracts between the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and 21 companies licensed to use its patented process for "cracking" petroleum, by which those companies were excluded from selling products manufactured under that process in any of the 11 states in the Standard of Indiana's territory.

Effect of Contracts. These contracts had the effect of keeping the companies from competing with the Standard of Indiana in Missouri and other states in the Standard of Indiana's territory and constituted restraint of trade, Attorney-General Barrett declared. Some of the contracts covered 15 states.

Attorney-General Barrett introduced this evidence after officers of the Standard of Indiana had testified that the company had no agreements of any sort with other companies concerning prices and competition and that there was no restriction in sales. After the contracts had been introduced, Standard officers admitted, on questioning, that they still were in effect, but asserted the company had not enforced the sales restriction clause.

The inquiry was adjourned until Sept. 10, in Jefferson City, at the request of Standard attorneys. At that hearing Robert G. Stewart of Chicago, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard of Indiana, will testify on behalf of the company.

The State virtually closed its testimony yesterday afternoon, Attorney-General Barrett stated, and probably will not put on any witnesses at the next hearing.

The Attorney-General has not indicated what action he will pursue, pending termination of the hearings, but it is understood he proposes to institute proceedings against one or more companies in Supreme Court, under the Missouri antitrust laws.

As exclusively related last week in the Post-Dispatch, Attorney-General Barrett does not necessarily have to file a new antitrust proceeding if he proceeds against the Standard of Indiana, but can file a motion in State Supreme Court to have set aside the court's suspension of an order issued against the Standard of Indiana in 1933, ousting it from Missouri. Quicker followed conviction of the Standard of Indiana of violating the State antitrust laws and the suspension was during good behavior of the company. The latter order provided the suspension could be set aside, on proof of any further violation of the State's laws by the company.

Four Companies in Agreement. The various contracts introduced by Attorney-General Barrett showed also that the Standard of Indiana, the Standard of New Jersey, the Texas Co. and the Gasoline Products Co. had entered into an agreement for an interchange or pooling of the various patent rights owned by the four companies, for "cracking" petroleum to recover gasoline. Under this agreement these four companies could issue licenses to other companies permitting them to use any of the processes in the pool, as subject to certain license restrictions. The licenses also were assured of protection from attack for any alleged infringement of patents.

Dr. C. Matthew Coe:

Dear Doctor Coe—I had suffered with Piles for several years when I came to you. I had undergone an operation for them two years ago, but it did not cure, for I had just as much—or more—trouble after the operation. I am very sorry that I did not come to you instead of having the operation, for I would have been saved endless pain and much money.

Before taking your treatment I lost time from my work; now I am every day in comfort.

I am recommending every one I know who is afflicted with this trouble to go to you, for I know that you can cure them.

Sincerely,

Mr. Thomas P. Rieckhoff

26 CONTRACTS PUT IN EVIDENCE AT GASOLINE INQUIRY

the stand most of the time yesterday, is the inventor of the Burton process for "cracking" petroleum, which was said to be the most valuable patent held by the Standard of Indiana. This process consists of applying great heat and pressure to petroleum for a certain period. This breaks up the molecular units, making possible the recovery of about 30 per cent of the gasoline in the crude products.
Under the old process of heating to a lesser degree, and without pressure, the recovery was only about 25 per cent, it was said.

Barrett Goes Into Detail.

Attorney-General Barrett went into detail on several of the contracts, to illustrate their effect.
One, executed between the Standard of Indiana and the Standard of New York, gave the latter company a right to use the Standard of Indiana patents in foreign countries. It provided, however, that the Standard of New York could not ship into Missouri or any other states in the Standard of Indiana's territory, any of the gasoline manufactured under those foreign patents.

Another contract, executed Dec.
21, 1915, between the Standard of Indiana and the Magnolia Petroleum Co., gave the Magnolia company a license to use the Standard of Indiana patents in this country, and provided the Magnolia company could market products manufactured under those processes anywhere in the United States, except in the states constituting the Standard of Indiana districts. This contract was amended in 1918 to provide a penalty clause, under which the Magnolia's license could be revoked if the Magnolia company sold its products in Standard of Indiana territory. Similar contracts executed by the Standard of Indiana with other Standard companies were included among the 26 contracts put in evidence by Barrett.

Companies Licensed.

The 21 companies licensed under these contracts are the Texas Co., Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, Standard of Ohio, Standard of New York, Standard of Kansas, Standard of Kentucky,
Standard of Louisiana, Magnolia
Petroleum Co., Gasoline Products
Co., Lyonnell and Refining Co.,
Tide Refining Co., Refining
Co., Solar Refining Co., Galena Signal Oil Co., White Eagle Oil and Refining Co., Humboldt Oil and Refining Co., Petroleum Refining
Co. of Texas, Imperial Oil Co.,
Tidewater Oil Co. and Utah Oil Refining Co.

Testimony also was presented to the effect the Standard of Indiana received $13,848,748 in royalties from licensing its patents in the four years 1920-1923, inclusive.
These amounts by years were: 1920,
$3,387,667; 1921, $2,827,073; 1922,
$3,555,264; 1923, $4,078,743.

Attorney-General Barrett asked
Dr. Burton what was the purpose of the agreement by which the Standard of Indiana, Standard of New Jersey, the Texas Co. and Gasoline Products Co. pooled the patents they owned.

"These companies all owned certain patents for cracking petroleum and there possibly was overlapping of patent rights," Burton replied. "This agreement was made to clear that up. Each company could license whoever he desired, with these patents, and the licensee would be assured of freedom from attack for alleged infringement."

Burton Questioned.

Attorney-General Barrett asked
by what right the Standard of Indiana licensed the Standard of California to use both the Standard of Indiana and the Texas Co. patents, with a restriction against sale of its products in the Standard of Indiana territory.

Burton said the contract had been drawn by the Standard of Indiana patent attorneys and he supposed it to be good patent law. "I don't know whether it was good patent law," Burton continued, "but we were advised so by our attorneys."

"By the combining of these patent rights with the other three companies, wouldn't you have a death grip on the oil business in this country?" Attorney-General
Barrett asked. "I don't think so,"
Burton replied.

"Would not the sales restrictions in the license contracts keep many millions of gallons of gasoline out of competition in Missouri and other states in your territory?"
asked the Attorney-General.

"I don't think so," replied Burton. "A great deal of the 'cracking' in the country is production that we don't have any interest in.
I don't think the contracts result in any restraint of trade."

Producer Advertisement.

Attorney-General Barrett later introduced as evidence a Standard of Indiana newspaper advertisement, in which it was stated 2000 plants in the country were using
"cracking" processes and that 1600
of these were using the Burton process. The other 400 were using various other "cracking" processes
now in existence, the advertisement stated.

John D. Clark of Chicago, vice president of the company, testified the Standard of Indiana had not enforced the clause in the various contracts preventing sales by licensed companies of products in Standard of Indiana territory, and asserted the Standard never had checked up to see if this clause was being violated.

He stated the national production of gasoline was so large, and there were so many million gallons of "unrestricted" gasoline in the market, that the "restricted" gasoline was in the minority.

"The method of keeping one gallon of gasoline out of a state is the most feeble way to protect a gallon in that state," he said.

AS SPOON RIVER RISES

Several Marooned on Telephone Poles When Boats Capsized in Illinois Flood.

GALESBURG, Ill., Aug. 22.—Spoon River which yesterday flooded hundreds of acres in Knox and Fulton counties was still at flood stage today, following heavy rain during the night. Some residences had to be entered by water, and many families were forced to leave their homes. At Dahinda, houses were tied to trees, to keep them from floating away.

Fred B. Galloway, 19 years old, of Maquon, and J. Morrell, of Peoria, rescued Frank Donason, proprietor of Donawood Park, at Maquon at 6 o'clock this morning, from a hedge tree to which he had been clinging since 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Dean Adams of Maquon, was with Donason, making water measurements for the State Highway Department, when their boat capsized. Adams clung to a telephone pole until last night, when he was rescued. Rescuers were capzied in attempting to go back for Donason, but they also had to hold to telephone poles until help arrived. A swift current and the heavy debris made rescue work dangerous.

At London Mills, Morris Cohen, of Abingdon, and Michael Keller and Clarence Rodgers were taken from trees in which they were marooned.

GRANTED UNION STAGE HANDS

Musicians and Moving Picture Operators Still Confering on New Scale.

Wage increases of $5 to $15 a week and new union contracts for one year were granted to 200 stage hands, electricians and property men employed in local theaters, at a conference Wednesday of representatives of the employers and the workmen. These workmen, under last year's contract, were paid $50 to $65 a week.

Union musicians and moving picture operators, who have made demands of increases up to 25 per cent under new contracts for the ensuing year, are still confering with a committee representing the managers and it is believed a settlement satisfactory to them will also be reached.

Frank R. Tate, who is interested in the American and Columbia Theaters and a director in the Orpheum organization, represented the local managers in the conferences. He said today there at no time was likelihood of a strike and that he anticipated no local trouble from differences existing between the unions and managers in other cities. He referred to reports from Eastern cities of a probable strike of stage hands Sept. 1, which would prevent the opening of theaters for the fall season. Tate said all theaters in St. Louis would open on schedule time this year.

MAKES TARGET OF DOCTOR

Woman Hurls Ultra-Violet Ray Set, Policeman Reports.

Miss Anna Maddox, 26 years old, of 2622 Allen avenue, fell to the street in leaving a northbound Grand street car at Grand and Pine street last night. She said she was seriously injured, and a policeman escorted her to the office of Dr. Oney C. Raines in the Metropolitan Building.

"No injuries," said Dr. Raines after examination. This enraged Miss Maddox, the policeman reported, and she picked up an ultra-violet ray set and hurled it at Dr. Raines, missing him, but doing $70 damage to the set. She was then taken home in a taxicab. Dr. Raines refusing to prosecute.

KLAN AND ANTI-KLAN
FIGHT CLEAR CUT

Woman Opposes Order
Which Publicly Supports
Her Opponent—Sunbon-nets as Campaign Dress.

(Copyright, 1936.)

PORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 21.—Tomorrow's "run-off" primaries in this State will decide whether Mrs. Miriam E. Ferguson, wife of former Gov. James E. Ferguson, who was impeached, will become the first woman Governor in the country. Her opponent is Judge Felix D. Robertson, choice of the Ku Klux Klan, and leader in the preliminary primary.

In addition to the chance of the election of a woman to the governorship, interest has centered in the polling tomorrow because there has been only one issue in the fight for all offices—the Ku Klux Klan. It is a straight-out Klan fight, with Mrs. Ferguson and those associated on the ticket with her opposing the Klan, and Judge Robertson and his associates publicly receiving Klan endorsement and support. Efforts to divert the attention of the public to other issues have failed. Each side—Klan and anti-Klan—is staking all on this primary, the second one in four weeks.

The first primary failed to develop a majority for any candidate in any of the seven important state races.

"Dan" Moody, anti-Klan prosecutor, who has sent a number of Klans to the penitentiary, named his majority by a few hundred votes only, and he is expected to run away from his Klan opponent in tomorrow's race for the attorney-generalship. However, he is the only race where the result is not in some doubt, although the anti-Klan candidates generally seem to have the better chance.

Heavy Vote Expected.

In the first primary, 729,948 Texans voted. Because of the bitter-ness the present campaign has aroused, even more are expected to go to the polls Saturday. Mrs. Ferguson and Judge Robertson are the survivors of a host of nine, entered in the first primary July 26. The Klan figured in the first election, which resulted as follows: Barton (Klan), 29,712; Burkett (anti-Klan), 21,884; Collins (Klan), 21,811; Lynch Davidson (anti-Klan), 141,829; Whit Davidson (anti-Klan), 124,564; Dixon (did not take the issue), 4182; Mrs. Ferguson (anti-Klan), 146,777; Pope (anti-Klan), 17,453; Robertson (Klan), 192,692.

In the first primary, the Klan centered on Robertson, following a conference of authorities of the organization, and he was the high man in the run-off. However, the total Klan vote, figured on the basis of each candidate's standing, indicated the State as a whole heavily anti-Klan.

Many anti-Klan leaders, whose influence had been distributed over a wide field of candidates, were disappointed that one of the Davidsens failed to get in the "run-off" with Robertson, because of the previous record of Ferguson. The latter while Governor, had been impeached and removed from office because of his financial deals, and, for many years, had not been in the Democratic party, having cast his lot with the American party. Ferguson also had been an anti-prohibitionist, and had not been very enthusiastic in support of the war policies of Woodrow Wilson. He had been denied a place on the primary ticket, but he entered his wife's name instead.

In the campaign now drawing to a close, Robertson has received the attacks of the Ferguson record, and has declared that prohibition is the issue and not the Klan.

Battle Cry Is "No for Ma."

The measure supporting Mrs. Ferguson are wearing such buttons and are shouting as their battle cry "No for Ma." Mrs. Ferguson has answered all most of the campaign attacks, and, in a number of instances, has made long addresses. A Klan, however, also calls for her husband, after declaring a Klan victory. "No for Ma" is the slogan of the anti-Klan forces.

Makes Old Folks Feel Young Again

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets in Great Demand by Aged People

Nowadays old folks are increasing their strength and vitality by the use of Cod Liver Oil, which, according to medical men, is full of vitamins and is the greatest body builder in the world.

Of course, they don't take the nasty tasting, evil smelling stomach flattening oil itself. Few sensible people do that in these enlightened days, when McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, sugar coated and easy to take—are sold in every drug store in the land—40 tablets for 60 cents.

Old people who want to keep young and vigorous as long as they can will find that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are just what they need to keep in first-class condition.

Scientists tell us that "Cod Liver Oil is useful during every stage and age of life," but at no time is its wonderful building power more clearly demonstrated than in old age.

Why not get a 60-cent box today and get your already decreasing energy and strength. Take them for 30 days and note the pleasure you get from feeling younger again.

There is no question but what they will help you, but if they don't help your money will be returned for the drug store where you bought them—for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are really guaranteed.

Now, however, to get McCoy's—the original and genuine. Send orders filled at McCoy Laboratories, 525 Fifth Ave., New York City. Ask Wolf-Wilens, Judge of Debit Drug Store, Riedle Drug Store and Johnson Bros. Drug Co. about them.

STEP TOWARD MOTORIZING GARBAGE COLLECTION SERVICE

Contracts Let for Purchase of Four Tractors and Twenty-two Trailers.

A step toward motorization of the city garbage collection service was taken by the Board of Sanitation yesterday with the letting of contracts for four tractors and 22 trailers, at a cost of almost $50,000. An appropriation of $200,000 has been authorized for this purpose, but only one-fourth of it is available now.

The awards were four White tractors, $4000.39 each; 12 trailers, Highway Trailer Co., $1345 each, and 10 trailers, Charles Hvas Co., $1475 each. Deliveries are to be made in three weeks.

Each tractor can draw four trailers. At present the garbage collection is made with mule-drawn wagons. With the new equipment, it is planned to have mule draw the laden trailers to central points, where the tractors will pick up the trailers and take them to the incinerating plant.

MURDER SUSPECTS RELEASED

Held Few Hours in Oklahoma in Florence Barton Case.

By The Associated Press.
MIAMI, Ok., Aug. 22.—Robert Hanna and Frank Rowden, arrested yesterday in connection with the murder of Miss Florence Barton of Kansas City, four years ago, were released later in the day on order of Cal B. Garman, Ottawa County Sheriff, after he had questioned a woman whose husband had been arrested. The Sheriff said he was satisfied there was "absolutely nothing to the story" on which Hanna and Rowden had been arrested.

MARS TO WINK AT THE EARTH AT DUSK TONIGHT

happening: It is possession of a single immense eye which forms the terminal of a great tentacle, flexible and thousands of miles long. This eye hovers over the surface, observing conditions everywhere on the Earth's body, mapping out new "canals" wherever necessary. This is why the aspect of the planet changes so rapidly and frequently to the perplexity of terrestrial astronomers, whose observations seldom agree in detail.

Such is the startling "Intelligent vegetable" theory, grotesque and fantastic, but about as reasonable as any.

Communication with the Mars being or beings (if there really are any such) will certainly be attempted. But one daring assumption is made or implied by all who make the trial: that the Martians are sufficiently interested in us to wish to communicate. If they really are a million or more years ahead of us they may already know all about us; they may be watching us every day, observing everything that we do, reading all our messages and newspapers, perhaps even our very thoughts. Perhaps they feel that they can learn very little from us, and that intercourse would bring them nothing of value. If so, they probably will not bother to answer our signals even if they understand them.

Concerning the Croatian peasantry, Raditch has caused it to be given out here that they must win their liberties, and cannot expect to have self-government offered to them on a silver platter by Nikola Fashitch.

In the absence of Raditch, who has been declared an outlaw by the Fashitch party, the radical press has abandoned, in some measure, the consideration which it previously observed toward the person of the King, and its attacks upon the throne are becoming more pointed.

The Fashitch Cabinet is availing itself of this fact to strengthen its hold upon the sovereign, who is rapidly being placed in the position of adhering to Fashitch through thick and thin, as the only method of dealing with the antimonarchical menace.

FOUGHT TO PUT FRANCE IN RIGHT, SAYS HERRIOT

Premier, in Dawes Plan Debate, Declares Such a Policy Is Nation's Greatest Strength.

COMMUNISTS BITTER ON AGREEMENT

Little Enthusiasm Marks General Discussion in Chamber — MacDonald "Comrade and Friend."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—The Chamber of Deputies today listened, with slight apparent enthusiasm, to alternate attacks and defenses of the Dawes plan and Premier Herriot's negotiations at the recent London conference. The Communists relieved the monotony with occasional outbursts of vituperation.

The Socialist leader, Leonard Blum, this afternoon declared that Herriot's work at the conference was the best that could be done under the circumstances. He repeated the Premier's explanations of why the matter of inter-allied debts and security could not be settled at the London gathering, and how France was forced by circumstances to discuss the Ruhr. He ascribed Premier MacDonald as "our comrade and friend."

In one of his several statements during the session, Premier Herriot said:

"The idea which dominated all my work at the London conference, was to place France in the right, because I was convinced, in years to come, France's greatest strength would be to be right. To put France in the right, is to assure her security, and, to say this is not simply to speak as an idealist, but to remember the lessons of war which too many may have forgotten."

The Premier referred to the help of the allies, and notably America, "who came in because we had right on our side."

Communist leader, Marcel Cachin, in interpellating Premier Herriot at this morning's session, declared that "Dawes represents American imperialism in a most direct, personal and concrete manner."

He charged that the Americans at the London international conference imposed the Dawes plan "with force and some brutality."

While M. Cachin was speaking, M. Herriot shrugged his shoulders, prefaced his eye-glasses and continued making notes.

"The new American policy is not very disinterested," M. Cachin continued. "It has strictly an economic basis. The Americans hope to find an enfeebled European market where they can impose their conditions. They must have healthy markets to which they can export hence the Dawes plan. They have no sympathy for Europe nor for our country."

The Communists alone applauded the interpellation.

Referring to the Hughes speech at the Pilgrims' Club, M. Cachin said American statesmen are hostile to Red Russia "both from a class spirit and because they do not wish to see Russian wheat flooding the world's markets."

On the other hand, the chamber gave signs of a desire to sift and dissect the terms of the London agreement very thoroughly, and the debate promises to be long drawn out.

In the Senate also things will not go so rapidly as expected. Senators Miller in Ohio and Bienville Martin in Louisiana, in accordance with arrangements, submitted their motion of conference and the President, under the rules, sent it to the Foreign Relations Committee. Former Premier Poincaré, however, said he desired to ask the Premier a number of questions. The latter, who was immediately apprised, declared he would be ready to reply, but at a public session instead of before a committee. Miller in Ohio and Martin thereupon withdrew their motion and it was agreed there should be an open debate at which the Premier, as in the chamber, would answer any questions the members wished to put to him.

"Three Musketeers" Visit President and One of Them Receives a Present

—Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and Harvey Firestone, the Three Musketeers of Commerce, Science and Camping, stopped at Plymouth, Vt., this week, on their annual motor tour to visit President Coolidge. The President presented to Ford and old maple sap bucket, made by Mr. Colidge's grandfather. The bucket will be placed among other historic relics of New England handicraft at the Wayside Inn, the old coaching tavern in Massachusetts purchased by Ford.

From his followers when he entered the chamber to read the declaration summarizing the history of the negotiations at London, while a few reactionaries started shouting him. On the whole, the declaration was listened to in approving silence. Many parts aroused bursts of applause.

The most enthusiastic cheers were called forth by the Premier's reference to arbitration.

"The principle of arbitration must rule the world henceforth, unless the nations proclaim they will maintain the horrible custom of war," the Premier declared.

At the beginning, the Communists tried hard to create a disturbance, and when the Premier was compelled to suspend the sitting when Andre Marty, amnestied naval officer, conspicuous in the Black Sea fleet revolt, started an uproar at the conclusion of the Premier's address by waving a banner bearing the words: "Another crime: Leynmer!"

Communist Assaults MacDonald. It was an allusion to the death sentence recently passed on a soldier at Limoges for desertion in the war. Officials had to wrestle with Marty and his companions before they could consent to withdraw the poster.

Later, when Herriot was reading his declaration in the Senate and the Communists were endeavoring to create a diversion by forcing a debate on a motion to adjourn the session until ratification of the amnesty bill, Doriot, another Communist, provoked a second scene by bringing an accusation against "the great man of the day, MacDonald."

The British Prime Minister, he said, permitted the "assassination of Communists in India." Marty broke out again, also brandishing from the tribune his poster "Another crime," and hurling insulting epithets at the minister, such as:

"There's blood on your hands. You are worse than dishonest."

The debate on Herriot's declaration will begin today.

Keystone of Arbitration Triumph for France, Premier Says.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—The agreement, on the Dawes plan was only the first step, the Premier said in his declaration to Parliament, and the month's work of the experts could not be expected to establish European equilibrium. The changes thus obtained were France's gain.

Never again, the Premier proclaimed, could France have a majority vote of the Reparations Commission for anything resembling the Ruhr operation, so he chose "realities" instead of "illusions," and felt that the keystone of arbitration was a triumph for France. His supporters and many of his opponents cheered him when he remarked that he rejoiced Americans would play such a large part in the execution of the plan they had largely created. Herriot did not go deeply into the chances of the proposed loan's success, but intimated that there were movements behind the scenes in London which he would not characterize out of respect for other nations.

The allies had promised that out of the war should come new justice, and, exclaimed Herriot, "we have kept France's promise."

Deliveries the "Maurice Case."

The agreement for payment in kind Herriot called the "master clause," for, he explained, it goes further than the treaty of Versailles and obligates Germany to oppose the obstructive tactics of industrialists and upon final decision by arbitration, "enable the German Government itself to assume deliveries."

President Herriot also read his declaration in the Senate. It was applauded by the members of the Left, and the President announced

$100,000 ALREADY OBTAINED FOR MGR. BRENNAN MEMORIAL

Edward W. Foristel to Report on Progress of Campaign Monday Night.

Progress of the campaign to raise $100,000 for a memorial for Mr. Brennan, noted astronomer and pastor of St. Mary and Joseph Church, will be reported by Edward W. Foristel, president of the society, at a meeting at the church Monday night.

The amount thus far raised exceeds $100,000. Foristel said today, and makes possible a beginning of the work by Sept. 1. He said not proceeds of the picnic by the society at Forest Park Highlands Wednesday will be between $75,000 and $75,000. The remaining $25,000 can be quickly raised by members of the society while the memorial is being constructed, Foristel said.

As is known, the society plans reconstruction of the St. Mary and Joseph Church building and establishment of the historic ground around it as a shrine. The ground is the first city block in St. Louis set aside for church purposes. The ground is bounded by Pennsylvania and Minnesota avenues and Iron and Kansas streets.

The society awarded the $25,000 home at 6145 South Grand boulevard to Leo Mathews of Chicago, a traveling man for a steam shovel company.

DR. F. A. GLASGOW, GRANDSON OF CITY'S FIRST MAYOR, DEAD

Suffers Heart Attack After Spending Yesterday in Recreation on Meramec.

Dr. Frank Adams Glasgow, grandson of Dr. William Carr Lane, the first Mayor of St. Louis, died of heart disease today at his home, 5062 Waterman avenue. He was 69 years old, and had been ill for some time, but had not been confined to his bed. He had spent his time in recreation on the Meramec River.

Dr. Glasgow was born in St. Louis and was a graduate of Washington University. He later went to Germany for the study of medicine, which he practiced until several years ago, when he retired. For many years he was on Mullanphy Hospital staff.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. N. B. Carson and Mrs. Newton R. Wilson, both of St. Louis. A private funeral will be held from the residence at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow, after which the body will be cremated, as Dr. Glasgow had requested.

that the Left Senators had submitted a motion implying confidence in the Government. He explained adjourned until 5 o'clock, after Communist Schwartz had been suspended for 20 sittings.

The Reichstag, consisting of members of the Government and of the Reichstag, adopted all the legislative bills dealing with the Dawes plan. Before the vote was taken, the representative of Mecklenburg-Schwerin declared that his government disapproved of the London pact and requested him to vote against the bill.

The representative of Bavaria, Wurttemberg and Thuringia abstained from voting.

WALES JOINS 'CLEW HUNTS' AND STIRS LONDON PROTEST

New Game of Younger "Smart Set" Is Played All Over Town in Wee, Smart Hours.

Special Cable to the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The nocturnal "clew" has been a coterie of the so-called smart young set, calling themselves "The Society of Bright Young People," have formed a strange feature of the London season, and the recent appearance of a sister of a peer of the realm in the police court, on a charge of automobile speeding, has given place to speedier machines and slow wits to faster wits, so that the field, which had started some 50 cars strong, all closely packed, jostling and maneuvering for position, was straggled out, though still traveling well. Lovely coiffures and beautiful dresses, deftly arranged, were no longer in that form. Shingled heads scooped heavily, for long hair was in many cases streaming in the breeze.

Few of the frocks that went on this hunt will ever see the lights of a ballroom again. A crowd of all-fours in the none-too-clear neighborhood of Seven Dials, led by the Prince, pursued by Mrs. Viola Parsons (formerly Viola Tree, daughter of late Sir Beecham Tree) in search of an elusive clue, chalked on the pavement, had soiled the majority before repair.

At the Stock Exchange a "clue" was provided by luminous painting on a dark wall, and some particularly exuberant "blooms" did their best to scale Cleopatra's Needle on the Embankment, and destined only when the police intervened.

motor party went full tilt into a steam roller, and doctors had to attend to casualties.

The hunters found their final prey at the Norfolk House, St. James (rented for the season by Mrs. Harry Brown of Pittsburgh), and here a breakfast had been prepared with a string band to cheer them after their motor license.

When the Hon. Lord Sturt, sister of Lord Alington, was recently summoned to the police court for speeding while playing the game of "chasing clews," the magistrate described the incident as "most outrageous," and the prosecuting solicitor expressed the hope that it would soon cease, as otherwise offensive users of the streets would have another terror to face. It was shown that Miss Sturt had passed through a police control at 11 o'clock, and, in order to pass three other cars, went on the wrong side of the road. She was fined £40 and costs, and her license was suspended for three months.

Mrs. Parsons, in an interview, declared that the game was a splendid fun, educational, and inconvenient nobody. This "defense" was answered by Mitchell-Hedges, expert and deep-sea research expert, who expressed the opinion that "The Society of Bright Young People" has done more than any other influence or organization to create thousands of Socialists to bring the "upper classes" into disrepute, and show how "lightly they regard the struggle for existence which is taking place in this country."

The badge or brooch worn by members of the society has a white enamel background, bearing a red heart pierced by an arrow. On one side there is a pineapple in brown, and on the other a banana in yellow, with the letters "S. B. Y. P." A correspondent points out that the Berlin authorities recently put an end to a similar society by calling themselves "Die Wilden Liebes Kinder" (The Wild Love Children).

Meanwhile, Neil Maclean, the Labor M. P. intends to ask the Home Secretary in the House of Commons Monday: "Whether his attention has been drawn to the action of certain people who have been organizing 'great treasure hunts' in London; whether any of these people have been arrested during any of these hunts for offenses against police regulations; and whether he intends to ask the recently appointed Commission on Lunacy to inquire into this midnight exhibition of smart-set imbecility."

The hunters were soon on their way for the city and a newspaper office, where another clew had been laid. On again to St. James Square and to darkest Kensington, to a mews on the site of one of the plague pits where London buried its dead 25 years ago. At 2:30 a. m. smart London came running down Oldway Mews crying, "Bring out your dead," and received the model of a dead baby, on which to find a clew which took them to the Imperial Institute.

By this time, slow automobiles had given place to speedier machines and slow wits to faster wits, so that the field, which had started some 50 cars strong, all closely packed, jostling and maneuvering for position, was straggled out, though still traveling well. STAY OF PROCEEDINGS IN MILLMEN'S CASE ORDERED

Supreme Court Will Pass on Motion to Strike Out Economists' Testimony.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 22.—Chief Justice Graves of the Supreme Court today ordered a stay of all proceedings in the anti-trust case pending in Supreme Court against the St. Louis Millmen's Association, pending disposition by the court in favor of a motion by the defense to strike out of the record of the case all testimony obtained by the State from economists in two hearings conducted recently in Washington and New York.

The motion to strike out the testimony and a second motion for the stay of proceedings, were filed Wednesday by Charles Houts of St. Louis. The motion to strike out the testimony of the experts contained the testimony consisted of conclusions and judgments of the economists and as such "invaded" the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to pass on the issues in the case. These economists had testified the plan under the Millmen's Association offered offered opportunities for price fixing and restraint of trade.

Taking of testimony in the case has been in progress for more than a year, before a special commissioner. Another hearing was for Monday in Jefferson City, but that Prof. Dewey unless the court immediately disposes of the motion to strike out the testimony.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 22.—Prof. John Dewey of New York City, American educational expert to whom the Turkish Government has offered the post of special adviser to the ministry of instruction has been inspecting the schools and colleges in Constantinople and interior cities. He is now compiling his first report on Turkish educational needs. According to Ankara advices, it appears unlikely that Prof. Dewey will accept a permanent post in Turkey.

WARDEN BEATEN BY YOUTHS WHO ATTEMPT JAIL BREAK

Man Slugged by Pair, but Overpowers Prisoners and Places Them Back in Cells.

Although he was slugged with a heavy iron window weight and badly bruised by two rebellious 17-year-old prisoners who tried to break jail yesterday, John P. Osenfort, warden of the juvenile jail in the basement of Clayton court-house, overpowered his two charges and put them back in their cells without injury.

He was sitting in his office adjoining the jail pen at 5 p. m., when he heard pounding in the room occupied by five juvenile prisoners and went to investigate. As he opened a cell door the window weight fell on his head and Thomas Mounsey, a prisoner, leaped from the top of the cell to the warden's back. Mounsey and Thomas Maynard began to pummel Osenfort, but he rose to his feet, collared them and thrust them into a cell. He lost a tooth in the scuffle.

Mounsey is charged with stealing an automobile and Maynard with burglary.

FILIPINO SENATE REJECTS GOV. WOOD'S APPOINTMENTS

Nominations of Governors of Two Provinces Held to Violate Administrative Code.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Aug. 22.—The Senate has rejected the nominations of Gov. Charles E. Livingstone and Guy Stratton as Governor of Lanao Province, recently made by Governor-General Leonard Wood.

The Senate leaders claimed that the Governor-General had violated the administrative code by the appointment of Americans when code provides that either a member of the Provincial Board or provincial treasurer shall be appointed when a vacancy occurs in a governorship.

Both provinces are inhabited chiefly by Moros and Governor-General Wood claimed that conditions demanded the appointment of men whose experience assumed order.

No further action is expected until the Governor-General returns from his visit to Lanao, where he is investigating charges made by some Moros regarding Gov. Livingstone's administration of that province.

PINCHOT ON G. O. P. TOWN

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 22.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot announced here today that he would tour the State of Pennsylvania and urge voters to support Coolidge and Dawes. He will incidentally tell the people what his own administration has done, he said, and will ask their support for "decent government." The tour begins Sept. 25 and will last one month.

"I am a Republican," the Governor declared, "and I shall speak the support of the voters of the State for the nominee chosen at Cleveland."

KRUPTCY ACTION AGAINST HOME BUILDERS DISMISSED

Provincers Assert Federal Court Proceedings Interfered With Collections.

Bankruptcy proceedings against the Federal Home Building Corporation, brought in Federal Court here about a year ago by three contract holders in the intensively advertised "own-your-own-home" project, which went on the rocks, were dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Reeves, on application of attorneys for the receivers, A. D. Gates and C. N. Jacobs.

The receivers, who were appointed by the Circuit Court of St. Louis, declared that the contract holders, H. W. Felter, Frank R. Watkins and H. L. Robinson, had not pushed the bankruptcy action and asserted that the Federal suit interfered with the receivers' collecting equities in property due the Home Building Corporation. The contract holders did not contest the application for the dismissal order.

HARBORD URGES U. S. DISARMAMENT PLAN

Says U. S. Must Give Up Isolation to Reduce Dangers of War in World.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y.—Major-General James G. Harbord, former Deputy Chief of Staff of the Army, urged disarmament for defense only, a nonpartisan, consistent foreign policy and co-operation with the other nations of the world for disarmament, yesterday, in addressing the Institute on International Relations on the Christian Point of View being held under the auspices of the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches.

He advocated the United States joining in the so-called American or draft treaty plan of disarmament.

Gen. Harbord declared that Russia and Germany would not remain content to be excluded from the East and that our "unhappy manner of doing the thing we had a right to do may have lost us the warm friendship of Japan."

He pointed out that an alliance of the three nations is not an impossibility, and if a German-Russian-Chinese-Japanese combination came about, it would be serious for the world. He stated that proper preparedness now costs each citizen of the United States "only $4.54."

Harbord criticized the church leaders who urge Christians not to take part in any war, saying that "if the extreme religious pacifists were really desirous of destroying our independence they could hardly advocate a more effective plan."

"Giant's Are Stirring."

Pointing out that the United States "could be always legally in the right and frequently morally in the wrong" and might by domestic action create foreign resentment and menace peace, he urged a settled foreign policy.

"We must give up isolationism in order to bring about a general reduction in armament and in a sense end our diplomatic 'isolation,' which some call 'splendid' and others call 'indolence,'" he explained. The colonial future of Great Britain, France, Holland and Japan may most vitally affect the United States. Not all the great powers were parties to the Washington conference. China, Russia and Germany are politically in an uncertain state. Giant's are stirring restlessly in their slumbers and may be dreaming dreams.

"With all the Latin-American states in the League of Nations, can we maintain the Monroe doctrine with these countries morally in our carrying their disputes before that political organization for settlement? American armaments have never been a real factor in either the maintenance or the prevention of war except as when they have been inadequate they have encouraged stronger powers to presume upon our supposed weakness."

"When it comes to the world, exclusive of the American continent, it must be admitted that a competitive growth of armament breeds a feeling of international insecurity."

"Unofficially the problem has been passed on to American students for consideration. A small volunteer group brought together by Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia University and the Carnegie Peace Foundation has crystallized and discussed a formula, which in its view would meet the condition of affording participation to all states, without regard to affiliation with the League of Nations."

"This so-called American treaty would not work a revolution in world conditions nor bring about the millennium, but I do believe that it would minimize the probability of aggressive war. It would bring an economic boycott to bear upon every aggression. It would establish an international tribunal for the settlement of international disputes and take the first step toward reducing the weight of armaments."

VANITY BOX, 2000 YEARS OLD, UNEARTHED IN NORWAY

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

CHRISTIANIA, Aug. 6.—What is believed by experts to be a kind of vanity box, used by the women of 2000 years ago, and a measuring of solid gold, were unearthed recently on a farm by a peasant who gave the articles to his children for playthings.

Collectors heard of the discovery and induced the children to part with their ancient toys. The articles, in the judgment of the experts, date back to about 120 B. C.

The ring, of artistic, though barbaric design, has been placed in the museum of Christiania University, while the vanity box has been going the rounds among experts who are eager to determine if it contained a powder puff among its appurtenances, or, if not, what might have been in use to take its place in those days.

REDUCING MADE SIMPLE AND EASY
French Scientist Discovers New Ingredient to Dissolve Fat.

A French woman now in America reports that a new treatment for obesity has been found by a well-known French scientist; it is a simple, harmless combination of ingredients put up in a small tablet called "SAN-GRI-NA," which helps nature in throwing off unnecessary fat-forming elements, thus making it possible for fat to form and accumulate on the body. Already surprising reports from all parts have been received. Cases of reducing vary from 10 to 50 pounds in a remarkably short time, with complete restoration of health and marvelous change in general appearance. While "SAN-GRI-NA" is mostly recommended for reducing, it is also an invaluable help to get rid of all-work-out, tired feeling—does away with puffing and in many cases entirely relieves high blood pressure. Guaranteed absolutely harmless. Recommended by specialists, physicians and nurses as a safe, positive and simple way to take from 5 to 6 pounds a week. "SAN-GRI-NA" is now sold at all drug stores. Will Make Antiklan Fight Independent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—Timothy L. O'Neil, farm implement manufacturer, who has been in a controversy with the La Follette-Wheeler forces, last night announced he will run independently for the governorship on an antiklan platform. He said he will launch his candidacy formally at a luncheon in the Hotel Baltimore today, before a group of his political friends.

O'Neil said he considers the klan issue paramount. He will attempt to line up the forces which supported Judge Henry S. Priest of St. Louis for the Democratic nomination for the governorship, in the recent primary, and will also make bid for rural support.

HURT IN LEAPING FROM AUTO

Woman Injured Jumping From Machine to Escape Man.

Mrs. Carrie Rasberry, 22 years old, of 1500 Chouteau avenue, was taken to city hospital to be treated for lacerations of the elbows and head last night after she had jumped from a moving automobile at Twelfth street, between Seward street and Lafayette avenue.

She said she had accepted an invitation to be taken home from Twelfth street and Chouteau avenue by a man she knew as "John," who had bought her ice cream. Instead of going west, she said, he started to drive south and she became frightened and jumped out. Police arrested the man she named and charged him with peace disturbance.

SWISS GLACIERS RECEDING

55 Out of 100 Observed Showed Withdrawals Last Year.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BERNE, Aug. 22.—Scientific observations seem to show that the Swiss glaciers are receding. The advance during the last 10 years has come to a stop. From 100 observations taken last year, 55 glaciers were found to be receding and only 25 were advancing, whereas, in 1916, 63 out of 100 were creeping forward.

The last great period of retrogression was between 1855 and 1908, but, since 1908, the greater part of the glaciers appeared to be going forward until last year, when the new period of withdrawal set in.

COOLIDGE DISCUSSES ARMS CONFERENCE

Turning to State Affairs, He Says Operation of Dawes Plan Is World's First Need.

By the Associated Press.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 22.—President Coolidge regards the final settlement of the reparations problem the paramount world problem and until the Dawes plan is fully put into operation he does not expect the time appropriate to the calling of another arms conference.

Fear of invasion and attack must be removed from the relations between European nations, he said. Likewise Coolidge thinks inquiries of foreign nations as to the war debts due this country should wait complete settlement of the reparations problem.

The President's views were revealed in a conference with newspaper men today.

Refreshed by Vacation

The President expressed satisfaction over reports he had received on the political situation, including that of Maine, and said he had no plans for participating in the campaign other than the one he has to date. The duties of his office, he emphasized, will keep him close to Washington. He said he felt rested and improved from his visit, as it always was refreshing to get a visit "back home."

Will Meet Townsend

While holding out as of importance the entry by this nation into the World Court, Coolidge was represented as considering a reparations conference the first need of the hour in the European situation. The second conference to discuss limitation of armaments must await, it was said, complete stabilization of the relations between the foreign nations. He would give at any conference which might arise in fully disposing of his problem by a premature discussion of the war debts.

Aside from his trip to Baltimore where he will speak Sept. 6, Coolidge now has only one other out-of-town engagement, a trip to Northampton, Mass., in former name, to vote on election day.

Nearing the end of his first week of vacation, Coolidge was ready to turn his attention from his program of seclusion and rest and take up some of the social business of his office. In his connection he consented to meet the newspaper men. He expects to meet on Sunday the townsfolk at an informal reception.

Coolidge has with him the report of the tariff commission on the sugar duty and also he is known to have been studying the developments in Europe arising from the settlement of the reparations problem.

During his stay he combines has seen no political leaders nor discussed, except in the most casual way, the political situation. It is thought likely, however, that he may receive some members of the party who will be in this section soon in connection with the Maine election.

IDENTIFIES YOUTH AS ROBBER

An hour after Nathan Rubenstein's dry goods store at 6141 Bartmer avenue, was held up and robbed a young man at 4:30 p. m., yesterday Deputy Sheriff Kitch of St. Louis County saw a youth throw something into the weeds at 2119 Bartmer avenue, beyond the county line. He arrested Francis Morrissey, 19 years old, of 7265 Manchester avenue, and found a revolver in his weeds.

At Page boulevard Station, Morrissey was identified by Rubenstein, who lost $24.15, and a customer, David Morrissey, of 912 Hodiama avenue, who lost $2.50. The prisoner, who had $28.75 in his pocket, denied both the robbery and the ownership of the revolver.

During his stay he has had no political leaders nor discussed, except in the most casual way, the political situation. It is thought likely, however, that he may receive some members of the party who will be in this section soon in connection with the Maine election.

IDENTIFIES YOUTH AS ROBBER

An hour after Nathan Rubenstein's dry goods store at 6141 Barmine avenue, was held up and robbed a youth man at 4:30 p. m., yesterday Deputy Sheriff Kline of St. Louis County saw a youth throw something into the weeds at 2119 Barmine avenue, beyond the county line. He arrested Francis Morrissey, 2 years old, of 7395 Manchester avenue and found a revolver in his weeds.

At Page Boulevard Station, Morrissey was identified by Rubenstein, who paid $25.15, and a customer, Samuel Morrissey, of 912 Madison avenue, who lost $2.80. The prisoner, who had $28.75 in his pocket, denied both the robbery and the ownership of the revolver.

"Last Night I Sat Down and Cried"

Time—and a secret sorrow.

"When I got home last night, I sat down and cried. Everybody thinks of me as an 'older woman.' And I'm not so far past thirty. What am I to do? Nothing seems to help very much. My hair spoils everything—it's so dull and thin. How can I make it look as young as I am?"

You can make your hair youthful, you can set it aglow with its own richest radiance, by the magic of a shampoo containing a touch of henna. The touch of henna must be rightly prepared and blended. Then it will bring out all the light in your hair—be it blonde, brown or brunette.

The beauty-power of HENNA-FOAM SHAMPOO is in the touch of henna, especially treated, blended with its daintily perfumed liquid. HENNA-FOAM SHAMPOO contains pure vegetable oils. In quick refreshing lather they cleanse and invigorate the hair and scalp. They make the hair soft and full. The touch of henna gives it the glow of youth.

"My wife suffered for five years and practically lived on toast and hot water. Doctors said she would have to be operated for gall stones. A lady advised her to try Mary's Wonderful Remedy, and after taking four bottles over two years ago she has been entirely well ever since." MOVE TO KEEP WAR VETERANS' DISTRICT OFFICE IN ST. LOUIS

Chamber of Commerce Urges That Headquarters Be Kept Here Under Law Removing Number of Offices.

The Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations have written headquarters of the United States Veterans' Bureau at Washington urging that the district control office at 6801 Delmar boulevard be continued in St. Louis when, under a recently enacted law, the number of such offices in the country is reduced from 14 to 8.

Congressman Hawes of the Eleventh (St. Louis) District, called attention to the possibility that the district headquarters would be established elsewhere, unless St. Louis made a fight to retain them. About 200 persons are employed in the offices which have supervision of all Veterans' Bureau activities, including rehabilitation work, in the district, comprising nine states.

MRS. MARGUERITE NIEDERLUCKE MARRIED IN KANSAS CITY

Mrs. Marguerite Thiesse Niederlucke, from whom A. D. Niederlucke, son of Alderman Gus Niederlucke, obtained a divorce yesterday, was married to Morrell Brooks, also a St. Louisan, on Aug. 14, in Kansas City, according to dispatches from that city. The marriage license was taken out the same day, and the ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace John George. Brooks is employed by a firm in the Planters Building. Niederlucke, who is stenographer in Circuit Judge Killoran's Court, and his wife were married June 5, last, in Judge Killoran's chambers. They separated Aug. 4 and on Aug. 11 he sued for divorce, alleging general indignities. She entered her appearance and the case was under advisement until yesterday, when Judge Owsing granted him a decree.

150-MILE OVERSEAS HIGHWAY TO BE BUILT INTO KEY WEST

Contracts Signed for Beginning of Florida Project, a Spectacular Construction.

By the Associated Press. Fla., Aug. 22.—Contracts have been signed and things are shaping themselves for an early beginning on the first units, at both ends, of the long-planned overseas highway between Key West and the mainland of Florida, a distance of approximately 150 miles.

Contracts signed by the County Commissioners of Monroe County call for construction of the roadways and bridges from Stock Island to Saddle Bunches, and the causeway and bridge from Key Largo to Dade County.

Approximately 25 miles of the road are provided for under the contracts just signed, about equally divided in distance at the two ends of the line. Stock Island, upon which the city of Key West is located, is about two and one-half miles from Boca Chica, and the latter is approximately one mile from Saddle Bunches, which, with Sugar Loaf, will make it possible to extend the road for more than 15 miles without further bridging. After leaving Sugar Loaf, going eastward, another stretch of islands makes it possible to extend the road 30 miles or more with minimum bridging.

The undertaking represents one of the most spectacular pieces of construction in the country, and its completion will match the famous overseas railroad built by the late Henry M. Flagler. The latter road, undertaken down the east coast of Florida about a quarter of a century ago, later was pushed on to this city by throwing up of coral rock from the bottom of the sea upon which to build the roadbed.

FAIR WEATHER WIVES

By Mildred Barbour

AT THE MERCY OF THE PACK—CHAPTER 23.

JULIE and Lella and their husbands were at the Thornton Baynes' dinner dance.

Julie drew Marjorie away as soon as the latter had greeted her host and hostess and been properly exclaimed over, as befitted a bride of such prominence.

"How provoking that business should take your fascinating husband away just at this time!" purred Mrs. Thornton Baynes. "But how wise of you not to stay at home on that account! So many brides make that appalling mistake."

Marjorie succeeded in getting away from her before her burning cheeks betrayed her. Here was her mother's fine hand again. She was clever at inventing excuses for Reed Hollister's absence.

Julie bore her off into a secluded corner.

"You look ravishing," she commented, her keen eye running over her sister critically. "Not at all the deserted bride that I'd fancied. I say, kiddie, what actually happened? The matter gives one a wonderfully embroidered story, but I'd like the truth."

Marjorie told her in a few words. Julie whistled boyishly.

"My word, you DID spill the beans, didn't you?"

"I told the truth. Pretty late in the day. But nevertheless the truth."

Julie shrugged.

"Oh well, no bones were broken. I hear you came off astonishingly well in the matter of settlement. I say, my dear, you couldn't lend me a bit, could you? Morris has been in an awful hole financially for a long time, and I'm positively ashamed of my bride debts. I don't dare ask him for money, and I'll have to cut the club directly, if I don't pay up."

Marjorie sighed.

"Come over in the morning and I'll give you a check. You might as well have it as anything. Besides, it's not mine anyhow, you know."

"Good girl!" Julie patted her on the shoulder. "By the way, Lella is going to speak to mother this evening about taking you to Europe for the winter. She and Ivan think it would be well to keep you abroad until the inevitable gossip blows over and people stop speculating."

Marjorie raised her head defiantly.

"I won't go! That's final! I'm not going to tag all over Europe after those two and listen to Ivan practice his everlasting do-re-mi's. If I'm the family goose who lays the golden egg, I shall at least have my own nest. None of you were ever the slightest bit solicitous about me before dad failed and mother forced me into this preposterous marriage. You and Lella and Dan rarely remembered that I existed. So all these plans for my happiness sound rather motivated and hypocritical to me."

Julie looked startled.

"I say, you do scratch, don't you? And I thought it was only a fluff, cuddly kitten. Oh well, the whole family's pretty much a bunch of rotters, I guess. Doesn't do to throw stones when you're in a conservatory, you know, kiddie!"

Marjorie left her disgustedly and was promptly pounced upon by Cora Forester.

"You lovely thing! I've been wanting to see you ever since I heard you were back, but I had to go into town today to meet my nephew who's going to stay with me while his family winters in Europe, and there was only time to jump into my glad rags and dash back to this party. How are you? You look gorgeous!"

She lowered her voice, "tell me about you and Reed Hollister. I've just heard the best side of the story. Suppose you tell me the worst."

Dinner was announced before Marjorie had finished her recital. She was glad to talk to Mrs. Forester, confident of her sympathy and understanding, her complete lack of hypocrisy.

"Come over tomorrow and tell me the rest of it," Mrs. Forester whispered, giving her hand a sympathetic pressure, just as her dinner partner came up to claim her. "I'm on your side, remember. I'll see you through it."

Marjorie found a certain naive enjoyment in the dinner. She had attended on few formal functions, been to so few grown-up parties that they were still a novelty to her. If she had not been quite unspoiled and totally lacking in

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Rapid Cleaning.

A little turpentine on a soft cloth will clean spots and dirt from an enameled bed with a single motion and leave a good gloss.

Safety First.

If you notice a thin place or a small hole or "runner" in your stocking upon removal, darn it before putting it in the laundry. Then the hole will not increase to a hopeless size in the washing process.

Hot Killed Down.

Freshly killed meat requires more cooking than meat that has been hung well.

Keep oil mops and furniture polishers in metal containers and prevent fire.

The sharpening stone should be washed after each use if good service is expected.

Put the celery tops in with the roast. They will give the meat and gravy a delicious flavor.

The shell will easily fall off of the fresh coconuts if put in a moderately hot oven for a minute or two before opening.

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"The direct foe of courage is the fear itself, not the object of it; and the man who can overcome his own terror is a hero and more."

Fear itself is worse than any disaster. George MacDonald wrote in "Sir Givvie."

"They whom truth and wisdom lead."

Can gather honey from a weed. Wisdom and truth open a man's eyes to all kinds of opportunities. Cowper states in "The Pineapple and The Bee."

LET HIM ALONE

By WINNIFRED HARPER COOLEY.

HOW to "keep" her husband agitates many a wife. Newspapers and magazines often suggest recipes, but we fancy that the person who so glibly suggests wife slanders is a superannuated spinster or a man.

In the old days wives were supposed to be submissive—I say, supposed, because little leaks have come down to us in history, showing that many a woman was a hustling manager, a tyrant, a scold, a termagant or a sly puss, whose methods differed, but whose manipulation of the male was just as effective as her blustering sister's.

Quaker type of female existed largely in the imagination of the sentimental male novelist. How they loved to picture Marianna at the Moated Grange—or some frail creature who sighed and wept and fainted and at last pined away and died! Male vanity enjoyed thinking that delicate maidens were withering on the stem, or fading and giving up the ghost, for love.

Even so modern and intellectual a man as Tennyson wrote one of his most exquisite poems on the rather impossible theme of a maiden's up and dying, merely for love, "Launcelot and Elaine." Here is incidentally a man who was a hysteric lover, a tyrant, a scold, a termagant or a sly puss, whose methods differed, but whose manipulation of the male was just as effective as her blustering sister's.

Even so modern and intellectual a man as Tennyson wrote one of his most exquisite poems on the rather impossible theme of a maiden's up and dying, merely for love, "Launcelot and Elaine." Here is incidentally a man who was a hysteric lover, a tyrant, a scold, a termagant or a sly puss, whose methods differed, but whose manipulation of the male was just as effective as her blustering sister's.

Well, perhaps girls whose lives are empty and whose imagination threw them into a fever, died of love, but we are pretty sure that men do not. So great an authority as Shakespeare corroborates our belief on this point. He says: "Men have died and worms have eaten them. But not for love!"

We cannot "keep" our husbands by too much love. It really bores a man to distraction to have saccharine caresses lavished on him endlessly. Then, too, the modern male, even he a "Tired Business Man," would be horrified if his wife toted out his slippers and knelt down and put them on his feet! If she tried to fill his pipe for him he probably would say, "Oh, my dear, for heaven's sake let me do that. Get yourself a cigarette and sit down!"

So much for the old-time suggestions as to methods of ingratiating ourselves with our spouses. They never worked. A famous Quakeress, young and exquisitely beautiful, declared that she always overwhelmed her husband with flattery, telling him he was the handsomest, cleverest and most adorable man in the world. "Feed them fatty till they choke," it is the only way to keep them," she said, or words to that effect.

Many a Wife Drives Her Husband from Home by Too Much Fussing Over Him, Says Writer.

Now, the singular thing about this recipe is that she not only failed to retain her husband's affection by its use (even when rich and beautiful) but she found him so unfaithful that she divorced and murdered him.

Evidently that rule did not work a little bit.

Even from the husband's standpoint it was not very satisfactory to be flattered, and then killed. Most men would prefer less adulation and a long, long life.

Now, lack any truthful husband, and he will confess that the modern man does not want a fussy, complaining, narrow, Puritanical wife. He appreciates a "good fellow" who will be efficient enough to leave her home at a moment's notice and go with him on business trips. He likes a woman who plays golf with him and does not criticize his little weaknesses and assumes a "holier-than-thou" attitude. If he will join a man in most of his sports and interests she need not lie awake nights trying to plan ways of "holding" his affections.

But one thing the male of today does resent—the feeling of being in jail. He would rather have the laundry darn his socks and get gin-wine at a good cafe than have a "ministering angel" fuss over him, nag and inquire into his every act and thought. If you have interests of your own, you will not drive him crazy by babying him, but will keep up a healthy aloofness occasionally, and let him alone.

Now, Do You Know—

THAT the regular eating of fruit is not only a stimulation to the important organs of the body, but will prevent stiffening of the joints and reduce that trouble in the arteries that makes you old before your time?

That if you put a teaspoonful of salt into the gasoline when you cleanse garments you will avoid that disagreeable ring around the cleaned spot?

That those faded flowers on your hat can be touched up with a little crayon or water color to do service to the end of the season?

The Mediator

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

THERE are strange folks in the world who can stay mad through anything and through the good offices of anyone! They have an odd one-track mind that can concentrate in a fashion that would do an ambition good if they would only apply it to the ambition.

Humor is an old man who never loaned them his cheery company. If he had, they would have to smile before the mad got very far. Most of us, thanks be, can be so angry that our hearts thump—"dunt-dunt-dunt!" with the suffocating weight of our wrongs, our world grows black as the blue-black inside of a thunder-cloud, we cannot speak, we can only growl, for just the space that a cloud can drift across the sun with its cool shadow following it below, and then quite suddenly an obscure tickling begins somewhere within—it isn't our elbow, or the floating rib, or the chin-chopper—but it grows and grows, we try to hold the corners of our mouth down, we tuck our tongue in our cheek, we frown, the air grows more ticklish every minute, we remember something that roused our risible one day or so ago, everyone and everything, most of all the two solemn ways that we and the one we are mad with must look alike, suddenly look funny.

and then we fall over backward and whoop—and the sun's OUT! For the other owl then can't resist us, and the flowers grow right up in the frost.

That's having old man Humor for a friend and familiar. Cultivate his friendship and company, my children. All through life, through mads and sorrows, he will be sun on the water, perfume on the air, a flower in the desert; he will even be a life-preserver when the boat turns over and you can't swim.

Humor is a mediator. And the other, that it takes a real NOBODY to remain ice to, is Appeal. Who can keep anger hot in one's heart in the smiling, innocent face of a little child, or the soft, wistful, kind eyes of a pup that doesn't understand? Both of them trust, believe, are bewildered at black looks. To both life is a lark, a play, a place where food and carresses come down to them always on time from the hands that love them. Both of them love without reserve. For them the world is perfect.

Wrath withers before them and can't hold out—that is, if you're just a plain human being. Shame squirms in first—apologetic, then comes a big hearted liking for everything and everybody, and the one you're mad with gets the full spring warmth of the Chinook that blows from a softened heart!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

FASHION FRILLS

LONDON.—With the filmy garden frock of brown and sand lace, a touch of orange is now expected. It is supplied in the brilliant hand-dies of brown parasols and walking sticks.

NEW YORK.—It is not too late in the season for new ideas in bathing suits to crop up. For example, even the snug Jersey suit now has a little cascade of black plaited taffeta ruffles down one side.

NEW YORK.—If you want to be truly chic you will wear your smart inside your autumn coat. It will be crossed in front and just allowed to peep forth enough to show its colors.

NEW YORK.—The chemise front is now seen on many of the new tailored street frocks. It adds a deft feminine touch as do the rows of buttons placed where the least expected.

LONDON.—Short little gloves have long been part of the sleeveless costume. But they are giving way in some instances now to a mere pteridette ruffle of taffeta around the wrist.

Helps for the Mother

By Emilie Hoffman

AT a table in a farm boarding house the other day a young lady was asked whether she preferred the dark or light meat of chicken. The embarrassed girl looked helplessly at her mother, who happened to be conversing with the guest seated beside her.

The carver repeated the query and the miss, in confusion replied: "I don't know." Then she asked, "Mother what kind of meat do I eat?"

There was a shout of laughter from the less considerate guests, in which her mother joined.

This lady seemed to enjoy the situation and explained that "Mother is very dependent on her mother in every way. I always put her food on her plate as she never has to help herself," and with an air of satisfaction she added, "Oh, she is a perfect baby."

This "baby" happens to be 18 years old. This may be an exceptional case, but how often consternation is registered on the faces of young folks dining away from home when food is passed and they must select a portion. They are decidedly ill at ease and every mother should guard her child against such a predicament.

The custom of preparing the food on a child's plate should be discontinued as early as possible. A child of 5 or 6 years can be taught to help himself to the foods that are passed, also to properly season and cut the food.

Make your children self-reliant in the matter of table service if you would have them perfectly self-possession when dining with guests or in public places. It is a real pleasure to watch a family of well-bred children dining at a restaurant.

The parents do not continually admonish or reprimand the young folks and the confident manner in which the children order their food and receive the attention of the waiter is charming to behold. No hesitancy, no confusion—just a meal with every one at ease.

The wise mother will help her child.

Philosophical Phrasings

Politeness has been well defined as benevolence in small things.

If I can preserve my good name I shall be rich enough.

'Tis good in every case, you know, To have two strings unto our bow.

—Churchill.

Mother is the name for God in the lips and hearts of little children.

To an upright man a good reputation is the greatest inheritance.

The plea of ignorance will never take away our responsibilities.

Forbear to mention what you cannot praise.

Railery is a poison which if undiluted kills friendship and creates hatred, but which qualified by a mixture of wit and the flattery of praise, produces friendship or preserves it.
